

Pearson Represents Callaway FCCLA at National Conference

By: Mrs. Walz

More than 7,500 nationwide members, advisers, alumni, and guests of Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA), gathered in San Antonio, Texas, July 6-10 for the 2014 National Leadership Conference. Hannah Pearson, a 7th Grader at Callaway Public School, was among them.

This year's student-originated theme for the annual national meeting was "Soar with FCCLA." Throughout the five-day convention, participants examined and discussed several critical issues, including family, school and community violence prevention, physical as well as financial fitness, future career exploration and countless community service projects.

Hannah was among the over 3,600 students that competed in STAR Events (Students Taking Action with Recognition) which are competitive events that build proficiency and achievement in leadership and job-related skills. Over the course of the last year, Hannah researched, job-shadowed, and created a presentation about a career area: Veterinary Medicine for the Career Investigation -Junior category. She represented Callaway well progressing through the Nebraska District 10 competition in Cozad and the State Leadership Conference in Lincoln with a top silver and top gold medal respectively. Hannah was one of only 8 students to receive a gold medal in the central region at the National Conference in San Antonio.

Coach Dockweiler blows her PE whistle and announces, "Corner up...on three." Twenty-seven girls respond with a cadence of three consecutive claps. "Today during practice we will be completing the All-American Volleyball Workout. As a team we will display dedication, discipline, and intensity. Partner up. Platform passing on the whistle." "Tweet," goes the whistle.

The girls' voices echo in the gym. "Mine." "I go." "Nice Pass." "To the target." "Quick draw, ten fingers, superman." "Nice Set!"

Welcome to South Loup Junior High volleyball practice.

The girls practice on their home courts three times a week and meet in Callaway and Arnold to round out the other two practice days. Our team theme this year is Nike's new slogan, FIND YOUR GREATNESS. Laney Willis' take on the theme is that you need to find what you are good at and do it as well as you can. Hannah Pearson said, "FIND YOUR GREATNESS means working hard to find what you're good at and how you fit in." Kalie Glendy states, "FIND YOUR GREATNESS means to find what you're good at. Try everything. You're not going to automatically be good at the first thing you try." Finally, Delanie Pinkerton's perspective on FIND YOUR GREATNESS is to, "Find what's best about you. Find what you're great at."

Cont. Coach Dockweiler and Coach Cole welcome the assistance of Kelsey Haidle and Jordan Rush during practice eighth hour. These two girls are super helpful demonstrating correctly the fundamental skills of serving, passing, setting, and hitting. They are able to help bridge the gap from junior high to high school if the players choose to play at the next level. Their positive attitude and passion for the game is contagious in the gym during our workouts.

The girls have less than eight practices left before they play Stapleton on September 10th. Each day you can see their skills take on more precision as they focus on the fundamentals of volleyball. It is important to complete several repetitions along with constructive criticism to perfect their skills and grow as a player. I appreciate it when an athlete looks at me in the eye while I provide feedback during a one-on-one session about a specific skill and how they can improve their performance level. The girls that are willing to listen and pay attention to detail advance their skills more quickly. Our goal is to promote a healthy lifestyle along with an understanding of the game for enjoyment as they mature. The players with a competitive spirit noticeably put forth the greatest effort and advance their skills more rapidly. You can definitely tell when a player puts in additional practice time outside the gym.

It is 3:40 the team breaks out in a huddle after complimenting teammates on a great practice. Good luck Lady Bobcats. FIND YOUR GREATNESS both on and off the court.

Football Season Begins

The South Loup football team got some help in the off season with some new kids moving to Callaway. Hunter Aul and Ty Bonde will help give us a little size along with Sully Lewis, Dillion Brown, and Hunter Willis. I think we have a talented group of guys willing to work. year along with playing a safety on defense, Layton Dockweiler will be leading the way for Forrester at the full-back position or play tight end and then will play middle linebacker and be the glue for the defense. The seniors include Chase Forrester, Isaak Cole, Jacob Mason, Rollie Schlehardt, and Layton Dockweiler. We have some high expectations for this season and are hoping to make another playoff run this season.

Box Tops

The Sixth Graders of Callaway Elementary and Lynette Glendy are coordinating the Box Tops for Education. The sixth graders are helping to collect and count the Box Tops. The class is continuing this project from last year's 6th grade class. The goal is to earn another Smartboard.

Each Box Top is worth $.10, and the goal is $1000.00. Mrs. Pitkin thinks we can earn even more with your help. Every Friday the class is picking up the Box tops from each class in the elementary and counting them. Mrs. Glendy will then submit them to the program. We have already earned $100.00!

Anyone in the community that is willing to help, can turn in their Box Tops to the office or the Callaway Market. We appreciate your participation!

We are also doing Campbell Soup labels.

Math and Science Field Trip

By Mrs. Svenson

For the last 17 years Mr. Ellis and Mrs. Svenson have rewarded academic excellence in math and science. This reward comes not with the typical signed certificate doled out at Honors Night, but with a day trip to the South Loup River. If you personally, or one of your children, have never been a part of this trip you may be wondering why this activity has become a math and science tradition at Callaway High School. The concept is the result of the desire of Ellis and Svenson to let students experience the close relationship between the subjects they represent and to use a local natural resource as the backdrop for real world questions they are asked to solve.

The opportunity is reserved for Calculu-lus students and/or those students who have completed or are currently enrolled in all three of the honors science courses. These requirements narrowed the field for 2014 to just six seniors: Chase Forrester, Erin Johnson, Jacob Mason, Dakota Seng, Rebecca Still, and Keeley Witthuhn. Those students were divided into three groups of two and spent the day competing with other groups using their acquired skills to study water rate and volume, height and other tree characteristics, buoyancy and speed of water vessels, and the community that surrounds a river such as the South Loup by participating in a scavenger hunt.

Each of these students will now be working for the next two weeks on their own report of the data, calculations, and conclusions from the days' activities to submit for a grade in their respective math and science courses. While the students were certainly engaged in academic activities throughout the day and have some work ahead, the River Trip is also legendary for the inevitable fun to be had on a day at the river. Just listen to the student comments when asked about the day:

"It was a blast!"

Chase Forrester

"It was way better than school." Jacob Mason

"I wore shorts for the first time in three years." Dakota Seng

"The HMS Sinkie Boat floats and I hate spiders." Keeley Witthuhn

"I felt at one with nature when the bird targeted me on the bridge." Rebecca Still

"My favorite part was racing ducks down the river and the scavenger hunt." Erin Johnson

What is DIBELS?

Dynamic Indicators of Basic Early Literacy Skills

DIBELS is an assessment used to measure the acquisition of early literacy skills in grades K-6. It is comprised of six measures that function as indicators of the essential skills that every child must master to become a proficient reader: phonological awareness, accuracy, fluency, comprehension, vocabulary, and oral language. The results are obtained three times per school year and are used by teachers to:

- * provide early support
- * prevent occurrence of later reading difficulties
- * monitor at-risk students
- * target instruction

DIBELS results are valid, reliable, research-based benchmark goals that define levels that meet reading outcome goals.
