Muffins with Mom

By: Matti Stout

Muffins with mom is a great way for kids and their parents to bond with each other. All of the kids had an adult with them, whether it was their mom or their grandmother. That day they had many activities to do. They ate muffins and drank juice together. Mrs. Neufeldt had made them chocolate chip muffins, blueberry muffins, and cinnamon roll muffins. They also did a flower craft with each other and they sang a song. I went into Mrs. Hickenbottom's room and asked the kids what their favorite part about this day was. The overall answers from them were the muffins and being with their moms and grandmothers. Mrs. Hickenbottom plans to do this event every year. Overall, I think that this was a huge success and it sounds like the kids had a lot of fun.

The Seniors Saying Goodbye!

By: Laney Willis

Oh, it's that time of year again where sadly we will be saying goodbye to our 2017 seniors! We will surely miss them for years to come. Their graduation is May 14 at 2 o'clock. Their colors are charcoal, white, and teal and their class quote is "It is, what it is." I decided as a send off for them as they are entering the real world what were some things that they would carry throughout life that they learned here in high school. Jorgey DaueI says that "Nothing is forever and there's nothing you can do about it" and she also had some advice for the underclassmen by saying, "Don't skip school unless you really need too!" Also, I interviewed Wyatt Kunkee and his advice for others is "Do your best to succeed for as long as you can and never give up." Seth Pearson will carry out the skill of having time management skills. I talked with Natalie G'Schwind who helpful advice for younger kids is "Get your work done and come to school and it will really pay off in the end." Lenny Johnson said he will never give up because there is always someone that is there to help you. Thank you for the words of wisdom and we wish all the seniors luck in the real world!

A&P Field Trip

Again, the infamous trip of going to Human Performance Lab tour at UNK continues to go on. Lynette Svenson, the science teacher, has been taking kids on this trip for a total of twenty-one years. Some of the activities they did were: VO2 max test, DEXA scan, go to the Cadaver lab, and listen to a Presentation on Health and Fitness programs at UNK. She took three seniors including: Olivia Paulsen, Seth Pearson, and Savannah Weverka. I asked all of the students who went on trip a series of questions that might help you get a feel about what they did on the trip. Seth found the VO2 max test interesting because you could find out how fit someone is just by running on a treadmill. During the VO2 max, Olivia found out she was not as fit as she thought. Savannah thought the cadaver lab was interesting and it was way smaller than she expected! All three seniors said they would definitely recommend this trip because they thought it was very informative on how your bodies work and it makes you think of all the different careers out there.

Inter-High Day

By: Cheyney Loper

Inter-high day is a day when the students of Callaway Public Schools, go take tests and compete against other schools at North Platte Community College. There are over 600 tests ranging from physics and engineering, theater arts, or even construction just to name a few. Callaway did a great job this year, and obtained first place for Division 3. We even beat some Division 1 schools, and got 3rd place overall! Some of the students came home with some hardware. Brett Haidle got first in chemistry, Isaac Stallbaumer got 1st for physics and engineering, with another 2nd place medal for math. Seth Pearson got 2nd place got NPCC facts, along with Chase Ell, who was right behind him with a 3rd place medal. They only give awards for the top 3, but most of our students were in the top ten. There were even a couple a fourth placers, who were so close! Overall it was a good day to represent Callaway Public Schools, and congrats to all that competed!

Bobcat of the Month

By Suzy Heusman

"Aiden Haswell has the desire to read a book and learn something beyond what he reads. His initiative is a beneficial reading skill for future learning interpretive languages. Aiden takes learning seriously and applies what he learns to relevant situations. His classmates benefit from the positive example he sets."

~ Mrs. Leibhart

" Even though I don't have Isaiah in class, I am impressed with the way he carries himself. Every time I see him, he always has a smile and says "hi" for me. It can't be easy to come to a new school and fit in with a positive attitude. I feel Isaiah has done just that. Keep smiling Isaiah!"

~ Mr. Ellis

" Maci is a kind friend to all. She offers help and encourages with kind words. Maci is a little helper!"

~Mrs. Ross

"Megan exemplifies the qualities to be a Bobcat of the month. Megan had moved to Callaway and has adjusted to her new school. She is quick to assist teachers and her peers with assistance with homework, getting materials and running errands. She works hard in school and has set academic goals. Megan helps those in PE that struggle with running by waiting for them and making a game of tag to get them to complete the running requirement in PE."

The Callaway Band: They Handel-ed it Well

By: Andrew Harrison

On April 4th, the 5th, 6th, Jr. High and High school band played a fantastic concert at the Callaway Public Schools Learning Center. The bands did several songs separate and one final song together at the end of the concert called "Walking to the Sky". Mr. Beavers said, "I was very impressed with the 5th graders being able to keep up with the senior high band, when we were playing the "Walking to the Sky" piece, which is a hard High School, early College level piece. Otherwise I thought it was an interesting display of all the levels and talents of our Music department." Between the performances, the Music Appreciation class showed off what they were taught throughout the year like playing D.I.Y. Didgeridoos and playing a drum circle on synthetic drum pads. The Music department is really hitting those high notes of performing.

During this precious time that the preschoolers spend with Mrs. Ross, gives her a gauge of where the group is and allows her to see how she can adjust her curriculum to best benefit the students for the year to come. With this year's cowboy theme, Mrs. Ross will have her work cut out for her rounding up these Eighteen preschoolers. The soon to be kindergarteners will be tested on their hand eye coordination and other important skills they will need in the year to come, all while having fun and playing games.

NED

By~Suzy Heusman

On April 6, 2017, Andrew from the NED company came to talk at Callaway. He spoke to the whole elementary. They learned how to have a positive attitude and encourage others. He taught them how to do yoyo trick and some magic tricks. He inspired the elementary. The program took about 45 minutes. Mrs. Rush thoughts about the program was that it was good. It motivated and impressed the kids and that they were engaged in what he was doing. She was amazed on how he taught the kids.
